Embrace Mobile to Increase Employee Engagement

HR teams face obstacles when it comes to connecting with their employees

Challenges

Multi-generational workforce

Geographically dispersed employees

Employees without email addresses

Employees who are overloaded with email

Complex and time-sensitive messaging

Mobile-Friendly HR and Benefits Website

One central location for employees and their spouses

- Organize HR and benefits content in a cohesive way that makes sense to your employees
- Provide un-gated educational content
- Consumers expect information to be available digitally when and where they need it (this should replace your printed benefits guide)
- Availability of metrics (impact on traffic after your communication)
- Cross promote with emails, text messages and intranet blogs/articles

Provide a Mobile-Friendly Benefits Experience

Uploading Required Docs via Mobile

Compelling use case for ben admin on mobile

- Employees snap a picture of the completed documentation via their smart phones
- Employees log in and add the pic to their document library
- Important to let employees know that they can do this

Challenges With Email Communications

Average office worker receives 121 emails a day

Percentage of emails that have a malicious attachment: 2.3 percent

Percentage of email that is spam: 49.7 percent

Open rate for email sent in North America: 34.1 percent

Text Messaging as an Alternative to Email

Text messages have a 98% open rate

90% of all text messages are read in under 3 minutes

70% of U.S. consumers appreciate getting texts from healthcare providers

Sales prospects who are sent text messages convert at a rate 40% higher than those who are not sent text messages

Text Messaging Pros and Cons

Relatively inexpensive way to reach your employees (and their spouses!) where they are

Simple, easy and convenient for your on-the-go employees with a 98% open rate

Great for announcements, reminders and CTAs with links

160-character limit means your message must be simple

Employees should opt-in, and they may not want to receive texts from you 😞

Employees who don't have unlimited text messaging will have to pay for texts they receive

Best HR Use Cases for Text Messaging

- 1 Notifications and reminders
- Links to educational videos or login pages
- Links to download an app or complete a survey
- SOS State of emergency / disaster recovery communications
- ! Health and wellness tips and reminders

Opt-In Process

Personalization on Mobile

Marketers know a lot about you so they can present the most relevant ads

- Blanket email messaging to an entire company is no longer effective
- Employees will be more apt to engage in personalized content versus generic content
- Partner with an HR or benefits technology company that can provide personalized messages
  - Let employees decide how they want to receive your messages - via app notifications, text messaging, email, etc.
  - Must be able to generate messages based on workforce characteristics such as: enrollment status, classification, gender, location, union status, and benefits accepted

Recommendations – Part 1

Understand your workforce

Is your workforce distributed and/or “on the go?”

How tech savvy are your employees?

Are your employees asking for mobile tools and technology?

What if anything needs to be communicated to spouses?
(You’ll want to put together a plan that includes spouses).

Conduct an employee focus group, survey, or both to understand employee preferences.

Recommendations – Part 2

Evaluate your entire comms strategy and plan to incorporate mobile

- Begin using text messaging reminders and notifications right away if you aren't already.
- Consider creating a single mobile-friendly website for your employees for HR and benefits. (Don't be afraid to provide some information before the login).
- Partner with HR tech providers that support a mobile-friendly experience (understand whether they have a mobile-responsive site, a mobile app or both).
- Partner with your marketing team for messaging best practices on mobile (personalization, email optimization, etc.)
